Mosquito Creek Trails

One of Michigan's newest multi-use mountain biking trails, the Mosquito Creek Trails are located east of Muskegon about 4 miles north of M-46 on Maple Island Road. The trailhead is clearly marked and offers plenty of parking.

The project, spearheaded by Michigan's Edge Mountain Biking Association and Muskegon County, was professionally designed and built in three phases on a 500-acre parcel owned by the county.

Completed in 2021, it currently consists of four interconnected loops ranging in skill level from kids and beginner to intermediate and advanced – so there's an adventure for everyone. A great trail for group or family outings, its unique design allows you to progress to a higher skill level as you ride further from one trail loop to another.

What makes Mosquito Creek Trails truly special is the lush, deeply forested ravine surrounding Mosquito Creek. These machine-built "flow" trails were thoughtfully carved into steep slopes along the edges of the ravine, taking you on a scenic tour through this exceptionally beautiful natural area. Be sure to stop at the scenic overlook (at the eastern edge of the Matrix loop) to soak up the scenery.

The Faz Track trail races through fairly flat and gently rolling terrain. The Matrix, Infinity and Saints' trails hug the edge of the ravine and are the real stars of the show. All of the trails travel through shady woodland, making this a great place to ride on a hot summer's day.

The trails are also open to hiking and trail running, and fat biking, snowshoeing and crosscountry skiing during the winter season. Bike traffic direction alternates each day of the week. Always follow good trail etiquette. Class 1 (pedal assist) E-bikes are allowed. For more info, visit: MosquitoCreekTrails.org
